San Joaquin County
Welcome To Your New Home!!
Our corporate symbol is inspired by the age-old aphorism “a man’s home is his castle.” And just as castles survive to this day, Chicago Title affords the kind of protection that allows our client’s real estate investments to endure well into the next century.

The castle conveys what we stand for in that it represents strength. The turret motif of our logo is modeled after the old Chicago Water Tower, one of the few edifices to survive the Great Chicago Fire.

But the ring around the castle is of greater significance; it is emblematic of a moat. As a moat protects a castle’s walls, so does our title insurance protect our customers’ properties. As you know, the deeper and wider the moat, the more it safeguards the castle. At Chicago Title, we boast the deepest reserves in the industry, and span the country with more than 3,500 locations nationwide. Since 1847, we’ve been standing behind American property owners, ready to defend them swiftly and firmly, summoning our strength from resources hard won by long, consistent prudence.

San Joaquin County is the northernmost county in the valley that bears its name. Together with the Sacramento Valley, the two form the Great Valley, which is one-tenth the land mass of California.

French fur trappers worked the rich land of the San Joaquin Valley for nearly 20 years before the first American immigrants crossed over the Sierra in 1841.

Each of the county’s seven cities’ beginnings included a segment of settlers from far corners of the world. Lodi, for example, was settled by German emigrants, and Ripon became home to many pioneers from Holland. At one time, Stockton housed the largest population of Chinese in California.

San Joaquin County continues to reflect a global likeness, not only by its diverse population, but also by its many commercial and agricultural ventures and its ability to market items to anywhere in the world.

The county is probably most famous for its prime agricultural land, its diverse topography and its climate. Agriculture and related businesses are regarded the greatest assets in the county’s economy. Cattle ranches were the first industry in the Valley, and fields of grain and alfalfa were planted to support the livestock. Dairy farms followed.

In 1869, good fortune rode into the county on the rails with the arrival of the Central Pacific Railroad. Soon, new towns began to spring up around train stations in Lodi, Lathrop, Tracy, Manteca, Ripon and Escalon.

San Joaquin County boasts an inland seaport in Stockton and more than a thousand miles of recreational waterways along the Delta. During the last three decades of the 19th century, the county became the bread basket of the world. River boats carried grain and other goods from the Stockton waterfront to San Francisco and points beyond. And during the 1920s, the Stockton Channel was widened and dredged deep enough to allow ocean-going vessels to sail into the port of Stockton.

Today, the county is still regarded as a prime location for getting goods where they need to go. Sharpe Army Depot in Lathrop has become the Defense Distribution Region West (DDRW), accounting for $77.4 million in salaries in the region. And in 1994, the Union Pacific railroad opened its largest truck-to-train transfer station adjacent to the DDRW facility, making San Joaquin County a major competitor in transporting agricultural commodities and goods. Union Pacific officials expect that its terminal business will grow by more than 10 percent a year.
Stockton, "Gateway to the Delta" where you can enjoy over 1,000 miles of waterways in the Delta region. The Delta offers all sorts of recreational activities, from houseboats to jet skis, along with an abundance of fine striped Bass fishing. The Port of Stockton is the State's largest inland port. Large ships from all over the world bring goods to the Valley and take tons of our agricultural products. Stockton is one of the richest agricultural areas in the country, boasting the Annual Stockton Asparagus Festival held the last full weekend in April every year. Come and enjoy gourmet asparagus dishes, other fine foods and a fun time for all.

Lodi, "Zinfandel Capital of California", featuring some of the area's premier wineries. In the heart of Lodi and the surrounding areas, you will find some of the finest wines and brandies in the country. Each September you will want to take part in the annual Grape and Harvest Festival.

Tracy, "The City of Opportunity". You'll want to visit their "new" outlet shopping center and mall. Many crops grown in Tracy include lima beans, alfalfa, asparagus and fruit. Plan to attend the Annual California Dry Bean Festival in August.

Manteca, "Home of the Manteca Waterslides", featuring a Waterpark and Camping resort on 100 acres. Manteca also remains a productive agricultural region known for its pumpkins and sugar beet crops. Attend the Annual Pumpkin Festival in October.

Ripon, "Almond Capitol of the World", Beautiful almond trees await visitors along with the aroma of surrounding orchards and vineyards. Ripon is also home to three prominent poultry businesses. We invite you to attend the Annual Almond Blossom Festival each February.

Linden, You'll find a bevy of deliciously fresh produce including cherries, walnuts, apples, peas, peaches, chestnuts, tomatoes, beans, onions and squash to name a few. You won't want to miss Linden's Annual Cherry Festival.

Lockeford, Home to an abundance of horse trainers and breeders. The many lakes in the region also provide a playground for fishing, boating and hiking enthusiasts. You won't want to miss the antiques at the spring and fall Lockeford Street Fairs.

Lathrop, A small town with big plans for the future.

Apple Hill
Look for Apple Hill signs just beyond Placerville. About four dozen ranches sell fruit off their orchards directly to the public, along with fresh apple products such as pies and cider. In recent years, some ranchers have added other crops to the list, including cherries and pears. Fall is the busiest time of year. The setting varies with each ranch. Some are small and simple; others offer everything from vast picnic areas to helicopter rides.

The Delta
The Delta is a labyrinth of waterways formed by the confluence of the Sacramento, Mokelumme and San Joaquin river system as they flow into San Francisco Bay. The Delta features 1,000 miles of navigable channels, from Sacramento west to Pittsburg and south to Stockton.

Gold Country
The foothills of the Sierra Nevada crisscrossed by the Mother Lode Highway and Highway 50 are studded with old mining sites, "ghost towns" and historic hamlets.

Lake Tahoe
Lake Tahoe, North Alpine Lake, is set like a sapphire in the Sierra Nevada Mountain Range. Its snow-fed waters reach depths of 1600 feet. The mountains rise more that 4000 feet above the resort-lined shore. Lake Tahoe provides a natural getaway for snow or water skiing, boating, fishing, hiking and camping. The main casinos offer dining, entertainment and gaming.

Monterey and Carmel
One of the most scenic spots on the California Coast is known for the historic town of Monterey and the Spanish mission town of Carmel. There is much to see and do in this beautiful area from a multitude of fine restaurants, to shops of every variety, the scenic 17 mile drive, the famed fairways of Pebble Beach and Cypress Point to the exquisite Monterey Bay Aquarium, there is certainly something for everyone.

Napa Valley
The Napa Valley offers an environment of stunning beauty. Some of the world’s finest wines come from this region. There are hundreds of wineries and vineyards of all sizes to tour the various wines produced. In addition to its wineries, Napa offers balloon rides, excellent restaurants and quaint shops.

North Coast
The Northern California coastline is virtually unspoiled Sheer cliffs, pounding waves, rocky headlands probe much of the northern shoreline. Traveling north on Highway 1, one passes Jenner by the Sea, Fort Ross (formerly a Russian fur trading post), old fishing ports and forested campgrounds. Mendocino, an artist’s mecca, and Fort Bragg, a fishing and lumber area, are part of the lures of the Redwood Empire.

Sausalito and Tiburon
Sausalito (Little Willow) is situated on the Mediterranean side of the Golden Gate Bridge. Its rustic houses cascade down deep slopes to the bay and numerous shops and restaurants are located on the waterfront. Tiburon (Shark) lies eight miles east of Sausalito on Racoon Straits. The colorful harbor town offers a village-like Main Street lined with imaginative shops and restaurants.

Vintage Valleys
Calistoga still bubbles with natural hot springs and mineral baths. Nearby is the home of Jack London in Glen Elen and Robert Louis Stevenson State Park. Historic Sonoma, dubbed the “Cradle of California” possess a town square right out of Main Street, USA. General Vallejo's estate, California's largest adobe, is located in Petaluma Adobe State Park.

Yosemite National Park
Open all year, Yosemite National Park is a 1189 square miles of scenic wonderland that is constantly changing. Yosemite Valley is at the heart of this vast national treasure, 4000 feet above sea level, carved by glaciers thousands of years ago and surrounded by granite cliffs.
